Pale and Weak

"I think Cardui is a wonderful medicine, for I improved greatly after taking it," says Mrs. A. W. English, of R. F. D. 4, Roanoke, Va. "When I was just a girl of 13, my mother gave this medicine to me, and it did me a great deal of good. I was weak and run-down. After I had taken Cardui awhile, I felt much better.

"In 1924, my health was poor. I felt miserable, and hadn't enough strength to do my housework. It took all my willpower to keep up. I was pale and weak.

"I got Cardui again and took it. My improvement was wonderful. I can recommend Cardui to others, for my health was so much better after I had taken a course of the Cardui Home Treatment." E-141

Is There A Santa Claus?

In every child at one age or another, there awakens a doubt of the existence of that rotund merry old gentleman who yearly gives bounteously to all good children, and somehow never misses those who are bad.

And when that doubt grows to certainty, it is followed first by a resentment at being hoaxed, and then by disappointment at the plainness of the fact as compared with the glamour of the myth. But gradually these feelings are overshadowed by the tender memory of how beneficent, and altogether loyable the jolly old man was before one's faith was shattered. And from that day on, the child, who once believed enters the conspiracy to keep Santa alive in younger less inquisitive minds.

Santa Claus is our best loved tradition, perhaps our only tradition of which we never grew tired. Naturally we must conclude that such a universally popular man must have some thing to his credit besides his gay costume and the bag on his back. True, the twinkling in his eyes is quite enough to bring him into any one's favor. But more than that, Santa's popularity rests upon the very foundation of the tradition, the spirit of giving.

An editorial recently published in a city daily, ascribed the yearly revival of interest in Dicken's Christmas Carol at this season to the fact that there is a little of Scrooge, that hard hearted old miser, in all of us. Doubtless there is-at any rate there are few of us who give as much as we can, and do it willingly. Yet few of us enjoy frequent reviews of our disagreeable traits. Scrooge's popularity seems more deservedly due, not to his meanness, but rather to his discovery of the spirit of Christmas which cast a pleasant glow around him which only the truly happy enjoy.

There is so much said daily, almost hourly, about giving, that the word has been weakened from overwork, necessitated by our passive indifference to it. We have grown tired, not of giving, but of hearing about giving. At this season when the Red Cross drive is just completed, and the tuberculosis seals have just gone on sale, and we have had a hundred other calls on our money, and this year particularly when we are feeling a bit pinched, we become somewhat disgruntled not so much with giving, but at being asked to give so frequently. Yet this is the time of the year when we celebrate with elaborate festivity a holiday which has giving as its main theme.

There are in this county this year, families who are barely living from hand to mouth, and who have few if any of the necessities of life and none of the frills with which we celebrate Christmas. One mother with three young children, wants three dollars a week to feed her family and herself. A great many families will sit down to a Christmas dinner, which alone cost more than this mother wants for a week's food.

When most children of the county are awaking to a Christmas of joy, there will be some who awake hungry and cold. On that day when we celebrate the spirit of giving, who will give to these children faith in that little man so gay in his red costume? Who will maintain the tradition for them? Is there a Santa Claus?

The Introduction —By Albert T. Reid

Sunday School Lesson

International Sunday School Lesson for December 21

TIMOTHY

Christmas Lesson—Luke 2:8-20 and 11 Timothy 1:1-6; 3:14 16

Rev. Samuel D. Price, D.D.

Attention should be given to both themes, and they are closly related. Christmas is a day that has its best expression as it centers in the life of the home. The influence of Jesus, whose birth is being celebrated, has done more to change the home than anything else in all time. Evidence of this fact is to contract the position of women and children in those parts of the world where the teachings of Jesus are not operative with the social life in those lands where His principles are followed even in part. Having been in twenty-four countries the writer can testify to this as an eye witness.

No single event in the history of the world has so changed the life of mankind. Even the date in our calendar is Christo-centric. Those who refuse to believe in Jesus as the Son of God and Savior of sinners are financially profited by that which took place in Bethlehem B. C. 5.

When a principle is workable it becomes acceptable. Any thinker can propose a theory of life, but to be worthy of continuance it must be practical.

During the past six months men and women of the Bible have been considered. The last in the series of biographical studies is Timothy-of Lystra. Paul may have first met him when as an apostle to the Gentiles he was being persecuted and carried as an injured into the home of Timothy.

To get a good idea of the worth of this man read the two letters that Paul wrote which bear the name of Timothy. When Paul, the worn-out apostle, was in the midst of his second Roman imprisonment, he sent for Timothy, his in the faith, to come as a helpful companion.

A Call To Virginia's Generosity

We who are interested in tuberculosis control in Virginia and that means you, and every other good citizen of the State, are confronted with a serious situation.

Patients are having toleave the sanatorium because their families are unable to keep them there. This sad condition is largely due to the months of depression and drought from which we have been suffering. These patients, in many instances, go back to homes where they cannot receive the treatment necessary to effect a cure. They infect other members of their families, particularly children, who are especially susceptible to tuberculosis.

Funds from the Christmas Seal Sale now being conducted by the Virginia Tuberculosis Association, through its county and city branches, each year pay for just such cases as those who are now leaving the sanatoria. In 1929 nearly 800 months board was paid for sanatorium patients by this organization, as well as 297 X-Rays and food and clothing provided for patients ill at home, in addition to the preventive work among children and the campaign of education.

Buy Christm a Seals generously this year, remembering that there are many who cannot at this time have a part in the saving of precious lives. Tuberculosis is curable if treated in time, but hopeless when allowed to progress too far.

Christmas Seals help to save Virginians for Virginia.

Ennion G. Williams, State Health Commissioner.

BIGGER AND BETTER

THE GREAT AMERICAN VALUE

Fine-car distinction and quality in the new Chevrolet Six

Again, Chevrolet and General Motors have utilized their combined resources to establish a new and higher standard of value for the American motor car.

A new six-cylinder Chevrolet is now on display, offering fine-car distinction and quality certain to appeal to every discriminating buyer. For the new Chevrolet represents a type of economical transportation that America has long anticipated—a low-priced six styled with such striking talent and good taste, so smartly beautiful and complete in its perfection of detail, so advanced and refined mechanically that you will immediately recognize it as the Great American Value.

Front view of the new Chevrolet Sport Coupe

This great value is the outcome of four basic Chevrolet advantages: (1) The savings of volume production in nineteen great modern plants. (2) The economies which result when raw materials are purchased in vast quantities. (3) The benefits of continuous research in General Motors laboratories and on the General Motors Proving Ground. And (4) the close association with the Fisher Body Corporation who, this year, have surpassed all their previous achievements in coachcraft by developing bodies of outstanding quality, refinement and value.

These basic advantages have made it possible to build a finer car at lower cost. They have enabled Chevrolet to offer important improvements throughout the new Chevrolet Six—to give it a longer wheelbase—greater roominess and comfort—strikingly smarter style—impressive new luxury—more thoroughly satisfactory performance—greater dependability—and to pass on these savings of efficient manufacturing to the Chevrolet buyer in the form of low prices!

. . . AT NEW LOW PRICES . . .

Read over these new low prices. Know how very little it costs to own the Bigger and Better Chevrolet Six. Come in today and give this new automobile a thorough inspection. Study the many refinements and new appointments introduced in the distinctive bodies by Fisher. Ride in the car. Drive it! A few minutes' experience will convince you that the new Chevrolet Six is a new and finer type of economical transportation—a quality automobile that you will surely want to own. The Great American Value!
